Large-Scale Hazardous Pharmaceutical Destruction

PROBLEM

To provide full scale time-sensitive destruction for excess unused and expired pharmaceuticals and medical supplies originating from Desert Storm.

SOLUTION

Strong's tasks were to sort and identify all materials, index, label and create inventories, provide secure transportation, treatment and destruction of all items, and provide Certificates of Destruction for all materials.

Pharmaceutical materials were stored in over 1,000 SeaTrans containers, with a cumulative weight of over one million pounds. Project management included development of profiles, approvals, orders and itemized daily reports. Strong completely inventoried all material and created appropriate paperwork to account for each item destroyed.

Cargo security was a major consideration. Escorts were provided to safeguard the material while in transit to the destruction facility. Certificates of Destruction were completed upon witnessed incineration of all materials.

Exceeding Expectations

Strong completed the project before deadline, using efficient and cost-effective procedures. Strong accomplished this by focusing on the daily movement of the product, following strict protocol, and designing proper contingency plans, all while maintaining complete control of operations. These well-structured processes allowed a complex project to be successfully completed in a timely manner.

Partnering with Strong

Strong specializes in product destruction. As a service provider, we are able to offer the best available technology—we are not tied down to any one treatment option. We deliver a turnkey service and have the credentials and reputation to command large projects.
